

Explore economics, entrepreneurship and philosophy while practicing English

If you keep asking yourself questions like

- What role should markets play in our society?
- What is the proper role of government?
- Has capitalism failed?
- Why do property rights matter?
- Why do societies need entrepreneurs to prosper?
- When will the debt stop growing?

The Liberty Camp is the place to look for answers. In an open, interactive and intellectually stimulating atmosphere, the camp will combine:

- Lectures, teacher and student presentations
- Small group discussions, debates, case studies
- Workshops, where groups of students will write proposals for applying these ideas to solving problems facing our country today

The 2012 camp partners are:

WHO should apply to the Liberty Camp?

- university students or recent graduates
- those who speak English and want to improve by practicing it, the entire camp will be in English
- those who want to talk to teachers from UK, USA, Australia
- those with an interest in exploring liberty
